

New Zealand network - vessel update week 22

02nd June 2021

Dear Valued Customer,

Capitaine Magellan V5 is delayed in her voyage back to New Zealand due to poor weather conditions. She is expected to berth Mount Maunganui late on the 04th June and Auckland early on the 06th June, with a revised eta Noumea of 09th June.

Southern Trader V492 is also delayed in her voyage back to New Zealand due to poor weather conditions. She is expected to berth Auckland after the Capitaine Magellan on the 07th pm. She will be loading cargo for Nuku'alofa with an eta Monday 14th and cargo delivery to Papeete on the 18th.

Southern Moana V34 is expected to work in Auckland on the 15th June. She will be loading cargo for Apia and Pago only. There will be no Nuku'alofa call on this voyage.

Southern Tiare V34 is delayed and expected to be loading Auckland around the 23rd June and arriving Norfolk Island 27th June

These schedule adjustments will be reflected in this week's schedules and revised receiving information for this week will be communicated shortly.

Thank you for your continued support.

Yours sincerely,

NPDL
